The Digital Era of Telecom: Trends and Challenges

28th of October

The IT industry is quick to grasp modern telecom technologies. Travel aggregators, banks, taxi services, communication services providers — it seems like there's no enterprise that hasn't used digital services and solutions provided by the telecom industry. At the conference, we will talk about how the internet of the future is being created in telecoms nowadays and how telecom systems help businesses to establish and protect financial, organizational, and communication processes.
